Washington's Proliance Surgeons and Minnesota's Revo Health Strike Blockbuster Partnership

Proliance Surgeons announce Troy Simonson as new Chief Executive Officer to lead growth and innovation for the 250+ physician practice.

Seattle, WA (October 21, 2021) Seattle-based Proliance Surgeons, one of the nation's largest independent healthcare practices, announced today that Troy Simonson will be its new Chief Executive Officer, as part of a strategic partnership with Minnesota-based Revo Health.

Effective November 1st, Simonson will lead Proliance Surgeons' growth and innovation strategy, building upon its 28-year legacy of serving local communities across Washington. Simonson will also maintain his current role overseeing Revo Health.

"Today is a major milestone," said Dr. Charles Peterson, orthopedic surgeon, Chairman, and President at Proliance Surgeons. "Proliance was formed almost three decades ago by independent surgeons with a simple vision of providing excellent care for every patient, every day, and we've been successful. Now, we're looking ahead to our next chapter. Troy has a proven track record of helping large, dynamic practices like ours grow and thrive, which is why we're incredibly excited to bring him on board."

Revo Health is a managed-services organization that specializes in supporting innovative physician leaders and helping independent practices grow and thrive.

"The strategic partnership is an exciting opportunity for Proliance Surgeons and Revo Health," said Dr. Chris Meyer, orthopedic surgeon and Revo Health Board President. "As a fellow orthopedic surgeon practicing inside a large, independent multispecialty group, I have experienced first-hand the value that Revo Health brings to an organization."

Simonson has been a disruptor in the healthcare industry for over 25 years. He served as an executive leader of Twin Cities Orthopedics in Minneapolis for over 15 years, growing it into one of the largest orthopedic specialty groups in the country. As CEO of Revo Health, he helped guide the creation of Infinite Health Collaborative, an independent multispecialty practice with over 200 physicians in the Twin Cities, and continues to provide executive leadership to practices across the United States.

"I'm grateful for the opportunity to support the forward-thinking leaders at Proliance Surgeons," said Simonson. "They are passionate about giving every patient the best experience possible, which is how they've earned their strong reputation. This is an exciting time to join the practice, because we're capitalizing on a growth trend occurring in the industry. Physician-owned and led practices who have historically been overshadowed by large health systems are stepping up and driving positive change and innovation across all of healthcare. Proliance Surgeons is committed to leading that charge.”

Proliance Surgeons has experienced rapid growth over the past decade and currently serves over 800,000 patients per year in more than 100 locations across Washington. Their dedicated care team consists of more than 450 providers representing over a dozen surgical and medical specialties and sub-specialties, all working together to help the people of Washington get healthy and stay that way.
